The ReaderPen converts text to speech and is a major technological breakthrough for those who have reading difficulties such as dyslexia. Hear the words through earphones or the built-in speaker, or plug in an external speaker if required. There are also multiple dictionaries on the pen along with storage and a voice recorder/dictaphone. The smart pen gives students the independence to read on their own and improves self-confidence.

The ReaderPen is used by schools, TAFES and universities around Australia. Libraries, NDIS service providers, aged care facilities and companies are also using the pen.
